President's Message By Lisa Johnson

Hello Quilting Friends

It was so good to see you at the July Fair. What a great event! So many thanks are needed for all who helped put it on. So much work and time went into this fair and we all appreciate it so much.

How are you doing with your stolen moments of sewing? Do you have a small kit set up for on-the-go sewing? I pulled out my current EPP project and put it in a cute bag to keep in my car. I love knowing that I always have something to work on that does not take much brainpower. It is the type of project that is easy to start and stop. I am always surprised at how much progress can be made 15 minutes at a time.

August is going to be such a fun program at guild meeting. See you there!!!

Be a Piecemaker

Do you want to try Leaders and Enders?

By Sarah Yorgason

I love the concept of leaders and enders and it has increased my personal quilt production. If you want to give the idea a try, Bonnie Hunter has a free pattern she introduces every year to give you the opportunity to use leaders and enders. This year's pattern is called Triple Treat and can be found at the link below. It uses up squares and rectangles. <https://quiltville.blogspot.com/2022/07/leader-ender-challenge-11-triple-treat.html>
There are 12 other suggested patterns to use as leaders and enders if you want to choose a project that better suits your scraps.

What are Leaders and Enders?

By Bonnie Hunter

I love continuous chain piecing. I think it is one of the methods that really saves a ton of time and a ton of thread ends.....

I learned a long time ago to use a folded scrap to sew on and off of at the beginning/ending of a line of chain piecing...you would get to the end of your chaining, and sew onto this scrap, leaving it under the needle of the machine, and snip the threads between it and your piecing behind the presser foot. This always leaves SOMETHING under the foot so you don't start the next line of piecing with long threads that get tangled and get sucked down the needle hole pulling your fabric pieces with it, or worse, have to trim all those, trying to get them in the trash, but finding them ending up more on the floor, and clogging the wheels of your wheelie chair at your sewing machine as you roll over them or around the vacuum beater bar!

When you get to the end of the next chain of piecing, you put another fabric scrap through the machine and trim behind it...then you would go up to the top of the piecing you just trimmed off, removing the fabric scrap (sometimes called a 'thread bunny' by those who use this method) and have it ready for ending the next line of piecing. I typically had two thread bunnies going at any given time, one would be under the foot as the 'leader' to start the piecing with, the next one would be the 'ender' as I ended. The 'ender' becomes the new 'leader' as you start the next line of piecing.

I would continue to use the same scraps to sew on and off until they were clogged with thread, then that would STILL end up in the trash...and I would start with new ones until they were too full of thread to use anymore.

Then a lightbulb went off. I took a bin of scrap 2" squares that had been accumulating from trimming scraps down, and started using those as leaders/enders instead of a wadded up thread covered scrap. I would sew a light square to a dark square, trim off behind it....and eventually have a stack of these little "two squares" that I would also use as leader/enders to sew into 4 patches....

August Quilt Guild Meeting

August's meeting is featuring a vibrant, creative quilt group from far away Orem, The Polka Dot Ladies. It is composed of three ladies who have combined quilting experience of over 80 years! One of them, is also a beautiful long arm quilter.

They became the Polka Dot quilters because dots are their favorite fabric which they incorporate into EVERY quilt they make. The more dots, the merrier the quilt. Dots, dots, DOTS! Never enough Dots!

They meet together as a group, and every 4-8 weeks invite friends to join them for a three day quilting event, full of the essentials: sewing, quilting, eating, laughing, and sharing heart to heart stories. They often make the same quilt with their own twist or color way., but always there are dots. They have really bonded over their quilting adventures over the years. These ladies are bubbly, delightful, and will treat you to a gorgeous trunk show of their creative works. Hope you will join us August 17 and be inspired!
